Detroit Erecting Bronze Memorial To Poker Player

Dead Gambler, Dead Game Sport, Willed Fortune to City for Monument to Himself.

DETROIT, Jan. 11.—After ten years of suits and an unwillingness in the council to date has been set at last for the unveiling of America's most beautiful fountain—dedicated to a gambler, man-about-town and former race track habitué, who left his fortune to erect this monument to his memory.

On July 4 more than 100,000 unsuspecting Detroiters, who know nothing of the history of the James Scott Memorial Fountain, will gather at the head of Belle Isle, the most beautiful of recreation grounds of the Middle West, to witness the ceremonies at the unveiling of this monument to the dead gambler.

For James Scott, during his life was a practical joker of no mean reputation and many were the members of the clergy and the prohibitionists who felt the sharp barb of his practical jokes at those days. Second, he was noted as a sport, a gambler and a man who never forgave a grudge.

It is said that often in his life he boasted that he died. He would play a joke on Detroit which would leave the city staggering. He did. He left his entire fortune, running into seven figures, to the city to build a memorial fountain to him on Belle Isle. That was way back in 1910.

Immediately after his death, when the will was read the entire city was set by the ears with the announcement. The council first took the matter to the city and then referred it to a special committee sitting in executive session. Ministers, prohibition advocates, women of the church societies and others appeared and gave voice to their protest. They argued that he should not be allowed to "deface the city's fairest playground of children," as one minister put it.

The committee, however, recommended that he be accepted, acting on legal advice that they could not do otherwise. The councilmen hemmed and hawed for weeks and finally sent it back to the committee, only to be finally forced to accept it.

Then the storm broke. A court suit was started by some of the leading citizens and a permanent injunction issued against the city erecting the fountain. After months of litigation the courts ruled that the city had no choice but to accept it, as any man had a right to give the city such a memorial if he had the money and the city, in turn, was bound to accept it.

Thus the fight centered until 1914, when 42 designs were selected by the architects to submit to the city. The award was made to Cass Gilbert, Detroit man, and in 1916 he submitted the final plans and they were accepted. The city then appropriated $100,000 to build land at the head of Belle Isle for the monument.

A few months later America was plunged into the war and the fountain was forgotten until late in 1919, when work was actually started, the muck land having been completed. Work now practically done and James Scott's bronze statue of himself will sit at the head of Belle Isle, graced by the most beautiful fountain this side of Versailles, overlooking the Detroit river for 10 miles. It is placed in a position that travelers on the river boats coming from Duluth and Chicago and from Buffalo and Cleveland cannot help seeing it and wonder who the great man may be and every motorist who drives to Belle Isle, every nurse who takes her charges there, cannot help seeing it.

The fountain itself will have terraces, walks, pedestals and pillars and huge fountains, which will be great novel, all of white marble. Powerful engines have been installed to pump the river water up out of the bowl, held by the lions and shoot it 125 feet into the air, while a circle of sprays around the edge of the bowl and around the base of the fountain will play continuous needle sprays about.

On the west side of the fountain the tone of water falling from the main cascade, will rush in two torrents to the surface of a broad lagoon set in the middle of 40 acres of land used to erect the fountain upon.

On the east side of the fountain, situated in a great chair, will be the bronze statue of James Scott, facing the city and the most traveled river waterway in the Middle West.

Special marble construction has been used, so that a green effect of water coloring will be seen at the base of the fountain, while everything above will be shimmering white marble, relieved at the left by the bronze statue of Scott. Terraced walks and roads will lead to the monument, and inside the four lions holding the bowl will be a promenade under the waters of the cascade.

The fountain has been so placed that canoeists, boats, automobiles and pedestrians may get to it with no trouble at all and it will stand as the most shining example of architecture this city boasts.

Good Morning Judge!

Mose Willis, colored, was this morning acquitted in the police court of charges of larceny in connection with the theft of a valuable diamond ring from the home of Mrs. W. T. Paxton on Main street several weeks ago. An unusual situation arose in connection with the case. Willis had already been given a hearing in the police court on the charge and his case sent to the grand jury. That body failed to indict him and the case was called again in the court this morning. The evidence was not regarded sufficient for a conviction.

Sid Epps, colored, was originally arrested for the theft. He made a statement in which he said that he had taken the stone from the mouth of Willis. Willis had given it to him, when seen by the officers, made no denial of this, telling them that a negro at that time had the gem. He made no attempt to shield the incident and the gem was soon recovered.

Harry Brown and George Johnson, colored, were fined $2.50 and costs for gambling. They were caught last night at the house of Sallie Payne, a negro, who was this morning arrested on a charge of operating a disorderly house, but as this was the only case of actual disorder the police could relate, the warrant was dismissed.

James Lee, fined five dollars and costs for not having the proper license tag on his machine.

Preston Chancy, colored, fined $25 and costs for speeding.

J. S. Arthur and eleven dollars and costs for violating the Mapp act.

Utensils For Kitchen Bait To Draw Buyers

BY J. C. ROYLE

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The way to a man's pocketbook, as well as to his heart, is through his stomach. Kitchen utensils have been the best bait to attract buyers to the department stores in the last year of any line of merchandise. Once they had furnished or refurnished their kitchens, floor coverings, apparel line and other articles. But they were attracted to the stores in the first place by enamelware, and aluminum and other kitchen utensils.

Manufacturers and dealers in enamelware had a tremendous year in 1922 and are looking forward to an even bigger trade in 1923. Early in the year, before the period of prosperity spread to all sections, the demand largely was for good quality kitchen utensils with only a coat of enamel.

As times grew better, the blue ware, having two coats, was most popular and now the white grade, with three coats, is in widest demand. Prices have changed little so far in these goods, but the call now is for the more expensive grades. Steel is the basis of these goods and any increase in steel sheets probably will be reflected in the kitchen goods. Sales undoubtedly have been stimulated by the tremendous number of new homes built in the last year. This influence also has been felt in aluminum utensils, although the heavier grades of aluminum utensils have proved popular. The cheaper and lighter grades caught, but did not hold, the public fancy.

Sales of imported enamel ware in this country have been confined to day to what is known as "coldwater" enamel. Some of these articles are extremely handsome, but are not meant to stand cooking heat.

Department stores and various sections have changed their various kitchen utensils that they had stressed kitchen utensils in their newspaper advertising for they found that customers, attracted thus, turned naturally to the more expensive hand-painted, including furniture, hanging, art objects and rugs.

Furniture styles, almost as variable as those of dress, have not changed materially in the last six months, but dealers say there is an upward trend toward modern. This has brought that wood to greater popularity than since the Victorian era of the marble-topped table, fashionable in the '90s. Walnut is growing in popularity and is expected to be the material of 1923, provided the vogue continues.

The Federal Sugar Refinery announced today that the plant, employing 1,200 men at Yonkers, which was ordered closed over two months ago by Claus A. Spreckels, on the ground that the sugar market then was held at a false level, will reopen before February 1.

Refineries in this country are in view of the increase of 17 1/2 per cent in consumption in 1922. Per capita consumption in this country last year is estimated today at 102 pounds for each man, woman and child.

That manufacturers declared today that the demand for soft hats was steadily increasing and that the improvement the trade showed in the last half of 1922 apparently would be continued during the first half of this year.

One of the big milling companies on the Pacific coast today announced an advance in the price of export flour of 15 cents a barrel, but although Oriental orders are known to be in the market, buyers are hanging back because of the price trend.

Wool clothing manufacturers are vying for the source of materials as reported to be contemplating an advance in the new advance level established for denims. Tailors predict this will advance the cost to consumers to approximately $2 a garment.

Four New Firemen Will Be Named

Fire Chief Lewis Mitchell will not take steps to name additional firemen authorized under a special appropriation made by the city council until January 15th on which date two appointments become available. Two of the men to be appointed will be recruited from the fire station and the other two will be taken from the list of street department and will be used in connection with the operation of the new fire engine, the Public Works department will be called to order the recommendations made by the chief.

It would not be surprising if, during the coming year, the city council would all men were prepared to the council with a view to making a possible change in the present system. It is pointed out that since the department has become more important in the city, it is not surprising that when answering an alarm call to find no one of consequence that the department has returned to quarters before it is possible for the fire engine to arrive at the scene of the fire. The council will be called to order the recommendations made by the chief.

Hamilton Known
All Over Country

That H. C. Hamilton, held here on a robbery charge, has been given no little attention by the police authorities in many sections. Is indicated by messages received by the local authorities from all over the country, even to the Pacific coast. In all, telegrams have been received from Akron, Ohio, Detroit, Michigan, New York City, Philadelphia, Pa., Pittsburgh, Pa., San Francisco, Cal., and finally from Jefferson City, Missouri, all identifying the fingerprints sent by Officer E. G. Towell as those of Hamilton, known in these places with a criminal career.

The message from Jefferson City, also indicate that carrying a concealed weapon in Missouri in no minor offense. Any subject had he been released than he committed an assault and was sentenced to two more years, beginning his term in February 1917. He escaped the prison on June 13th of the same year and was at large until May 12, 1920. He was discharged on June 12, 1922. He also served an intermediate term in the Ohio state penitentiary, after he escaped from Missouri, on a charge of burglary and larceny.

A letter from Robert C. Davis, adjutant general in Washington states that he enlisted in the army on September 8, 1908 and was dishonorably discharged at Fort Riley, Kansas on October 1, 1909. The adjutant general, Samuel Hill, of the Missouri pen, has requested that he be notified should Hamilton be convicted of the burglary and larceny charge here.

Hamilton was traced to the various places through the fingerprint system of Officer Towell, who expects his diploma this month and who has already installed equipment for this work.

Paddy, Saved From Sewer
as Street Is Torn Up, Is Less Cynical in Outlook—Was Frightened Animal.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Before Tuesday afternoon Paddy was just an ordinary cynical gray horse, who whenever he thought of it, bitterly cursed the day 12 years ago when he had started to work for the street cleaning department of Newark.

Then something happened. Paddy and his teammate, hitched to a snow removal wagon, had just backed it to a four-foot manhole near Market and Ailing streets, and the driver was preparing to dump the snow into the sewer when an automobile whizzed past, startling Paddy and his mate so that they backed suddenly.

Paddy's 22-year-old hind legs dived under him and he was amazed to discover that instead of resting on the firm pavement his rear quarters were slowly but steadily descending into the manhole opening. In less time than it takes Paddy to tell now, the rest of his body and forelegs followed and the harness, towing wagon, had just backed it to a four-foot manhole near Market and Ailing streets, and the driver was preparing to dump the snow into the sewer when an automobile whizzed past, startling Paddy and his mate so that they backed suddenly.

Besieging Negroes In Florida Race Riots

Crouching in the brush, these marksmen are firing on a hut at Rosewood, Fla., where a negro, accused of assaulting a white woman, has barricaded himself with his friends. Hundreds of shots were exchanged, eight were slain and the Rosewood negro quarter burned.

Negro Quarter Burned, 8 Slain, In Riot

Above is all that was left of a negro dwelling at Rosewood, Fla., where a black, together with his friends, barricaded himself against a body of armed whites who sought to seize him after, as they alleged, he had assaulted a white woman. The whites laid siege to the house, firing rifles and revolvers. The negroes returned the fire. Hundreds of shots were fired before the stronghold was reduced and put to the torch. Most of the other negro dwellings in Rosewood also were burned. One burning is shown at right. Eight were slain in the rioting.

NEW INCREASE TO FARM BILL IS ADOPTED

(By The Associated Press)
NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Jan. 11.—That the new place of detention for juveniles who are under arrest will be completed and turned over to the juvenile and domestic relations courts and the probation officer in about two weeks is predicted by Probation Officer T. J. Chewning who says there is little remaining to be done to the rooms before they are ready for use. The conversion of the old police court room into a place for the detention of juveniles has been progressing for the past two weeks or more, several changes having been made.

English Women In London Men's Club

LONDON, Jan. 11.—Women are invading the club-life of English men.
J. Wilson Taylor, secretary of the exclusive Bath Club, predicts that in the future "it will be difficult to exclude women from our clubs. This club has 2,500 members of whom 450 are women. They have their own rooms and the use of the baths on one day a week. Twenty years ago such a thing would have been unthinkable."
That statement seems to hold forth reason for protest on the part of the women—the use of the baths on one day a week—and England is a country that has won world-wide renown for its alleged proclivities for frequent bathing.

WILLARD MAKES GOOD SHOWING BEFORE CRITICS

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Jess Willard, here seeking a return match for the heavy-weight boxing title with Jack Dempsey, today convinced a majority of critics who watched him go through a little gymnasium workout, that despite his 260 pounds he is in good condition and able to get down to fighting trim again with proper training.
Donning his ring togs the former title holder shadow boxed skipped rope and performed other light exercises for about a half hour before an interested gathering. He plans to continue similar workouts while he is in New York, waiting final word on negotiations which may reach a definite basis when Dempsey's manager, Jack Kearns, arrives here probably next week.
"Willard is the best man available today as an opponent for Dempsey," promoter Tex Rickard declared. "He is in better condition right now than he was a month before the bout with Dempsey at Toledo, in which he lost his title."
The first indication of financial terms Willard desired for a bout with Dempsey were revealed in an announcement by Tom O'Rourke, Polo Grounds match maker, that Jess asked $250,000 with a per centage payable here for his sparring partner. O'Rourke was successful in bidding for the contest.

LABOR BOARD ACTION BEING CHALLENGED

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—An argument presented today in the Supreme Court counsel for the Pennsylvania Railroad System challenged the jurisdiction of the Railroad Labor Board over wages of railroad workers and then working conditions. The board, they contended, exceeded its authority in setting aside agreements negotiated between the company and its shop employees.
On the other hand, Brickburn Martin, assistant to the collector general, asserted that the board was a fact-finding body, nothing more than an arbitration tribunal dependent on the support of public opinion for the enforcement of its findings, and was not subject to suit.

ASKS JUDGE IF RUNNING STILL WAS AGAINST LAW

(By The Associated Press)
NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Jan. 11.—"Judge is it again the law for a man to let a still run in his house?" was the subdued query in police court this morning of Randolph Gray, aged colored man, who it is alleged had rented out his small home to several other men for the purpose of operating a still. According to testimony of officers in court the man admitted having received "about two or three dollars a week, out of it."
The arrest of the aged house owner was made last night by State Police and Detectives. Three other negroes were taken in the raid, these said by the officers to have been sitting around the still which was bubbling merrily on the stove and exuding the precious "Coca-Cola" already having been given about a gallon of the stuff.
A search of the house revealed the older man asleep in his room upstairs a barrel of mash reposing comfortably near his feet. An additional barrel of mash was found in the downstairs "to let" down, according to the testimony.
Anthony Gray, one of the three still watchers said that he had just "dropped in for a drink," and further evidence supporting his contention, he was dismissed. Walter Melton and the younger Gray drew and heavier penalties of $75 each and costs, the former getting sixty days in agricultural pursuits at the city farm and Randolph Gray also being assigned a place among the city's indolent, tillers of the soil for thirty days. The other man, who said it is alleged "lived out," his place was fined $10 and given a sentence of 30 days.

Gloom Settles Over American Troops On Rhine

(By The Associated Press)
COBLENZ, Jan. 11.—Gloom if not consternation has descended upon the 1,200 soldiers of the eighth United States infantry who are now preparing to bid farewell to this lovely spot on the becastrated Rhine.

They are the last of the American forces on Europe's soil, and it is the end of their perfect day.
While the news of the withdrawal of the Americans was officially confirmed only this morning, it was known yesterday through the message of the Associated Press, telephoned from Paris and speeded throughout the city. The word reached a dance given by the Veterans of Foreign Wars where the German wives and sweethearts of many of the American troops were among the dancers. They raised their voices in tearful lamentations. It was a blow to Coblenz and today the face of every man, woman and child expressed a personal grief.
The world-wide political significance of the withdrawal of the troops is however, apparently lost to all save the commanding officers. Real sadness was evidenced in a message sent to Major General Henry T. Allen tonight by the head burgomaster in the name of the people of Coblenz. The message read:
"We are sorry to see you leave. We do not know how we can do without you nor what will happen to us soon. We are sorry to see the Americans go, leaving us so excited and at such a dreadful time. However, we trust matters will right themselves, and we wish all the best things to General Allen and his troops."

WITHDRAWAL OF TROOPS REGRETTED BY FRENCH
(By The Associated Press)
PARIS, Jan. 11.—The withdrawal of the American troops from the Rhineland is regretted but considered the outcome of poor judgment in the editorials of the few French newspapers commenting on the news of the American retirement. The news itself occupied small space in either the morning or afternoon newspapers.

The French entrance into the Ruhr is regarded as a triumph of vigorous police over inaction, and the American action, it is commented, could hardly have come at a time when events would more thoroughly minimize it.

GERMAN WIVES CAN BE BROUGHT BACK

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—American soldiers who have married German girls and who have been ordered to return home from the Rhineland, will be able to bring their wives with them although the women are not under the new law, citizens of the United States until they have taken out naturalization papers.
About 67,000 immigrants from Germany can be admitted to the United States annually under the new immigration law, and records show that on December 1, only 48,000 had come in. That makes it possible for 19,000 more to enter before the end of the fiscal year on June 30.

Industrial Meet Of Women Under Way In Capital

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—With the reading of a greeting from President Harding and an address by Secretary Davis, the three day industrial conference of women held under the auspices of the women's bureau today got under way. More than 300 delegates from 50 or more industrial, social and civic organizations were in attendance.
The president in his letter, encouraged women to participate more generally in public and social activities, while the Secretary of Labor stressed the importance of preventing the exploitation of women in industry.

Miss Mary Van Kleeck, of the Russell Sage Foundation, declared that industry means to women an opportunity to earn an endurance test, and a challenge to share in the construction of a better social order. While Mrs. Raymond Robbins of Chicago, president of the International Federation of Working Women asserted she favored industrial welfare legislation for both men and women, because "humanity was intended not only to produce the material things conducive of comfort and pleasure but also to have leisure and strength to enjoy those material things."

Discussing from the employer's viewpoint "what women workers mean to industry" Charles Cheney of South Manchester, Conn., representing the National Association of Manufacturers, declared that "women mean to industry a supply of labor."
"Industry will give employment to women—or to men—either because they are better adapted to employment," he continued, "or because scarcity of labor forces it, or because the work can be secured at the lowest cost. It must be remembered that the lowest cost does not necessarily mean the lowest wages."
"There seems to be a tendency to magnify the differences and forget the essential unity of men and women as to their aims and interests as well as responsibilities and obligations. I believe that there is now needed is to visualize the points of equality rather than to exaggerate the differences. The employment of women in factories is not inflicting a new burden upon them, but is simply transferring the labor from the home to the shop, where it is done under usually better conditions and in shorter hours."

Senator McCormack, Republican of Illinois, spoke briefly in support of his proposed amendment to the federal constitution prohibiting child labor.

ASBURY DAVIS ELECTED HEAD

(By The Associated Press)
BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 11.—S. E. Asbury Davis, president of the Merchant and Manufacturers Association, was re-elected head of that organization at the end of its forty-second annual meeting here today. Practically all of the executive officers also were returned.

Referring to the importance of Baltimore as a marketing place of the South, Mr. Davis announced that invitations were issued last year to approximately 100,000 merchants to visit the city, offering them a refund of transportation expenses, provided purchases of a certain amount are made here.

"Other cities," Mr. Davis said, "are making each year liberal offers to merchants in our territory to visit their markets and we have to do the same."

FRIDAY, JANUARY 12, 1923.
POINCARÉ SUMMARIZES FRENCH MOTIVES.

"We are now going to get coal for ourselves from Germany at the pithead."

This summarizes most accurately and concisely the attitude of the French Government, which has carried out its purpose of occupying the Ruhr valley, rich in its mineral products, and where are to be found the plants of Germany's most formidable steel and iron companies.

That was the statement made yesterday in the Chamber of Deputies by Premier Poincaré who revealed the fait accompli rather than outlining government's intentions. He explained that Essen had been occupied and the reaction was immediate. There was, as during the war period, a sudden merging of political parties, and there was vociferous expression from both sides of the house which left no doubt that M.
Poincaré has the support of the dominant political factions, save the Communists who might be expected to view with distorted vision any military move.

The military action was accomplished
yesterday without loss of life—a rather remarkable fact when viewed the danger of resentment to the invasion by a large majority of Germans who are still imperialistic enough to sense humiliation and anger. The overt act having been safely accomplished France will now seek to strengthen her position and will lose no time in exacting the defaulted coal deliveries by working the mines herself if the Germans refuse to operate them for her. That was the impelling motive which brought yesterday's step.
Germany had failed to deliver the amount of coal sorely needed by France and which was definitely prescribed in the treaty of Versailles so France temporarily annexed the rich mineral valley by military force and begins the operation of compelling payment. There is no sound logic in charging France with ulterior motives. It is a plain business matter with her and a somewhat tardy expression of her determination to see that at least part of the treaty of peace is carried out by that nation which was bowed into submission
through the application of that force Germany sought to direct against those who chose as her foes. Again we say that France has shown courage against great odds, the weight of public opinion in the most powerful of the nations with which she was associated in the "war or breaking her gun in 1914. It is perhaps this determination and the actual carrying out of the invasion plan which will bring Germany to her senses and bring about a more earnest effort to live up to the Versailles treaty nearly every burdensome provision of which she has sought to evade.

A Rat Tale!
(By W. M. Perry.)
Speaking of prizes for rat tails, here is a rat tale that deserves a real prize.
Bounties were offered at one time in Paris for tails of the rodents. A certain man bought them in by the wholesale which were readily cashed
in. The superabundance of tails delivered by this man aroused some curiosity among the officials. A close examination of one of the deliveries revealed the fact that the tails were made by a machine out of old strings.

LEWISTOWN, Mont., Jan. 11.—
Maintaining that he should be allowed to attend public dances without a chaperon, inasmuch as he is six feet four inches tall and would, in any town where he was not known,
be taken for more than 21, William Wadell, 15 of this city, recently presented his case to the city fathers.

After grave consideration, they informed the young man that the Council had no power to suspend or diances in individual cases, so the six-foot-four infant must pack along a chaperon if he desires to attend dances in his "home town."

the Salvation Army is to inherit prop-

Mrs. Case owned nearly 900 acres

A brother, Norman Clary, her only living relative, is expected to contest
the will.

THE ONE-MAN WOMAN—NO. 20

By Ruth Agnes Abelling

BEGIN HERE TODAY

KATE WARD, widow of
DAN WARD, living with her father,
JUSTIN PARSONS, has a visitor.

CHINATOWN ALICE, who says Dan
was father of her child.

DOROTHY. A few nights later Kate and her father and by their door, MONKEY, where they find an unconscious man. Carried to their home, he recovers and gives his name as JAMES LATHAM. Evidently he is much attracted to Kate. She accompanies him on an automobile ride and he is seen near the neighborhood of Terre Haute, she unexpectedly asks him to take her to the laundry of

SING LOY, with whom Chinatown
Alice lives.

GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"A CHINESE LAUNDRY" exclaimed Latham. "Can't you find a laundry nearer than this?"

"I might—but not the laundry I want," Kate spoke lightly. The day was too lovely to let even the thoughts of Alice disturb her.

"Let me let me in on the secret,
since I'm to 'share' you there?"

"Fraid not, Jimmy lad."
"I demand it," Jimmy was halting the car. "On penalty of five—Lady Fair!"

Wrath Strikes Machine Marons

The Seattle police have devised a "sticktight" notice which they attach to automobiles guilty of parking and similar violations. Only police have the key, and the only way in which autoists can get rid of the "sticktight" is to go to the police station.

(Special to The Bee)
CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Public opinion is compelling action throughout the United States to forestall the slaughter of 15,000 persons by automobiles in 1923.

At least 500,000 more are doomed
to injury.

These figures mean the chances
you will be killed or injured by an automobile in the course of the year are 1 in 215. Taking the family of five as a basis, 1 out of every 43 families in the country will be saddened this year by an automobile accident.

The death toll last year in 14 states that keep records was 8000; the toll in the 34 additional states, based on partial reports, is conservatively estimated at 6000. Total injuries are calculated as numbering 450,000.

A national telegraphic survey
made by NEA Service shows the public loudly is demanding protection from what Judge Asa Adams of Chicago call "machine marons."

The result in many communities is more arrests, shorter sentences, and increased severity in dealing with traffic law violators.

In Philadelphia, two motorists who ran down and killed persons a year ago were not tried until three weeks ago and then were acquitted. Meanwhile more than 200 persons were killed by automobiles in the city in 1922, as compared with 190 in the previous year.

Everywhere new plans are being worked out to curb "machine marons" who insist on taking a "sporting chance" at other persons' expense.

Judge Francis Parrell of Chicago, who jailed 26 speeders during the Christmas season, wants Christmas season equipped with an automatic device which would make speeding impossible.

He proposes court sessions in the county morgue where speeders can see their victims.

Los Angeles, which has had the highest traffic death toll of any large city, had 400 fewer accidents in December than in November as the result of a "kill-the-speeder" crusade launched by the city fathers.

Colonel Philip H. Brockman, head of the St. Louis police force, is asking the Legislature to pass a law increasing the traffic duty, but St. Louis judges have failed to substitute jail penalties for fines, though 137 persons were killed in 1922, an increase of 22 over the preceding year. There is talk of making every automobile carry $10,000 accident insurance before getting a license.

Pittsburgh has established a special traffic court which puts considerable reliance in the efficacy of revoking licenses.

California laws would be drastically revised under a bill to be introduced by Assemblyman Walter J.
Schmidt, whose brother was killed recently by an automobile. Schmidt's measure will include provisions:

"THAT death caused by drunken or careless drivers be punishable by life imprisonment."

"THAT every applicant for an automobile license be examined as to his ability to drive a car."

Increased severity in dealing with San Francisco offenders was marked by the sentencing of Xavier Schmah, merchant engaged with reckless driving resulting in a death, to prison for a year.

Justices of peace of central California have organized a permanent association which meets monthly and discusses traffic violation cases.

Oil Cause Of Much Trouble In Europe Now

LONDON, Jan. 11.—"Pouring oil
upon the troubled waters" is now only a phrase in international diplomacy.

Oil no longer means peace and tranquillity in Europe; it means trouble. The very mention of oil brings about a situation which is delicate, if not strained.

There is no single element in international diplomacy which causes
more trouble than oil.

There have been many predictions
of a future war for the oil supplies of the world, and these predictions have been laughed at, but as time goes on it appears that oil threatens more international difficulties than any other single element.

Great Britain wants to withdraw from Mesopotamia—at least there is a clamor for such withdrawal.
However, there are great potential oil deposits in Mesopotamia, and there are interests which are using their utmost power to prevent these deposits from slipping out of the control of England.

Titanium Little Known But Useful

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Ask the average layman what titanium is and the probabilities are he will stare at you blankly a moment. Yet titanium is the ninth most abundant element in the solid crust of the earth and, according to the United States Bureau of Mines, enters into the manufacture of many diverse materials ranging from gas mantles to armor plate and from false teeth to smoke screens used for concealment purposes in modern warfare.

Few elements have been accorded more attention by the bureau and developed greater interest in the past decade than titanium. The substantially pure metal has been difficult to isolate and thus far has been little employed commercially, but the use of alloys and chemical compounds of titanium has increased notably in recent years.

Substantially pure titanium has a silvery white color, like that of polished steel. It is hard and brittle when cold, but at a low red heat is malleable and can be formed readily like iron.

Titanium and certain of its compounds are important factors in the manufacture of arc-lamp electrodes, filaments of incandescent lights and gas mantles. For use in the dyeing industry it was exploited first in England. Certain of the titanium salts are powerful mordants which produce brilliant and stable colors. Salts of titanium have been used also in dyeing shoe leather and do not embrittle the leather, as do salts of iron.

Rutile, or titanium dioxide, is used for coloring glass for pottery and enamels. A little rutile has been employed in making glass. The mineral also finds application in making artificial teeth to produce the color required for matching the color of the natural teeth.

The use of titanium for pigments has developed rapidly during the last seven years, and in the opinion of the bureau's experts who have studied the subject, the element will be used in the future to a great extent in the making of coloring matter. Titanium-white has been found very promising for pigments owing to its non-poisonous nature and large covering capacity.

Titanium enters prominently into steel manufacturing. For many years it has been used in the production of Bessemer rail steel. It is used in great amounts for scavenging many kinds of steel and in the making of sheet steel. It is also used to a considerable extent in the production of high-quality structural steels—automotive steels, for instance.

These are only a few of the many uses of titanium. It is present invisibly in your home, office, factory, street cars, automobiles—in fact, nearly everything.

Eastern Galicia, the Ukraine and the Caucasus regions have rich oil deposits. Within a few months the world may witness a military struggle for the possession of this territory. There is little reason to doubt that if small nations in these regions are given autonomy it will be autonomy under the friendly auspices of some of the big powers.

There are constant reports coming out of Russia concerning negotiations for oil concessions. Oil is one of the prizes in which the Soviet holds out in exchange for recognition.

No diplomatic conference is held in Europe these days without oil figuring as one of the chief bones of contention. At San Remo, at Genoa, at the Hague, at Lausanne and everywhere the diplomats have met the spectre of oil has hovered over the conference.

Whenever peace threatens to settle down upon Europe someone takes up an oil feud, and the war clouds gather.

Yes, "oil upon the troubled waters" is only a phrase.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11.—In order that she may provide comfort for her parents, pretty Anne O'Neill is ready to wed the first acceptable man who presents himself for a consideration of $2,000.

"And he will receive my sincere love," says Miss O'Neill, in a letter to a local newspaper, announcing her need. "I am willing to sell my love to give my parents happiness. It is little to do in return for what they have done for me."

"I'm an ordinary-looking American girl," she wrote, modestly. "I am of Irish descent and was born in Chicago. I am 24 years old, 5 feet 6 inches tall and have dark brown bobbed hair, brown eyes; weight about 145 pounds and am healthy and jolly. Have had three years' high school education and love a home and children."

"It makes no difference to me where the man lives or what his trade is. All I ask is that he be American born, respectable, under 50. I prefer he be as tall or taller than myself."

"I am not lonesome and have friends. I'm not engaged or in love, so feel free to give my love to any American-born man of good character who could give me $2,000 on our wedding day. My folks are known in and about Los Angeles."

"When I see them worrying themselves ill and depriving themselves to keep expenses down I think only of the biggest thing I can do. If I can relieve them by marrying I will be glad."

For months Miss O'Neill has been trying to lessen the burden of her mother and father, she says, but with little avail. The $2,000, which she asks on her wedding day would put her parents on their feet again, she declares, and help them to retain a small hot house in Angeles to which they have built a home.

Yesterday he was given the seal of honor over two high toed cats in the non-championship class.

Tractor Caravan Crosses Sahara Covering 2,000 Miles in 21 Days

PARIS, Jan. 10.—A new kind of caravan, composed of five little water-pump-like automobiles, has crossed the Sahara Desert from Algeria, on the north coast of Africa, to French West Africa, making the 2,000-mile trip from Tugurt to Timbuctoo in 21 days.

Camel caravans require a minimum of three months to make the journey. These were the first automobiles to cross the great desert.

The tractors arrived in Timbuctoo last Sunday, making the last stage of the journey in a straight 27-hour non-stop run, the drivers of the cars working, eating and sleeping in relays. The tractor expedition was organized by M. Citroen, a French automobile manufacturer, both from the standpoint of scientific exploration and experiment in automobiles. The expedition was headed by four men, one of them representing the French Gov. The chauffeurs were chosen for competence as mechanics and also because of their power of endurance, for the Sahara nights are as cold as the days are hot, the thermometer frequently dropping 75 degrees within a few hours.

Each of the automobiles was constructed somewhat differently from the other, so that a practical demonstration might be made of various devices. Two of the cars were equipped with rapid-fire guns to ward off possible attacks by bandits. All the machines carried large tanks for oil, gasoline and water. In addition, the caravans had established supply bases along the route between Tugurt and Timbuctoo.

Florida City To Have a Memorial

PORT ST. JOE, Fla., Jan. 11.—A memorial to the site of the old city of St. Joseph, Duval county, where the state's first constitutional convention assembled and where the first constitution was signed, was dedicated today by Governor Hardee and other prominent residents of the state. The memorial is of gray granite and is a monument, 10 feet high and 23 feet wide, was erected by the state at a cost of $10,000.

On one side of the memorial is the inscription: "This memorial is to commemorate the birth of the state of Florida and the assembling of the first constitutional convention of this state convened in a building then standing upon this spot in the year of our Lord, 1838." On the inscription upon the opposite side are included the names of the forty-five signers of the constitution.

Large trees have grown among the crumbling ruins of St. Joseph, founded in 1832, by a group of Columbus, Ga. men, who built the St. Joseph and Florida railroad from the Dead Lakes to St. Joseph Bay. This was one of the pioneer railroads and is said to have carried a much as 150,000 bales of cotton annually from Alabama and Georgia to the seaboard. It was this business which built St. Joseph and with the construction of other routes to the seaboard, business dwindled and the town began to decay. With the sale of the railroad in 1841 and its dismantling, most of the residents moved away and many of the houses were moved by barge to Apalachicola, where some of them still stand.

The town was chosen for the meeting of the constitutional convention because of its prominence, the trip by rail affording delegates a most unusual experience. The site of the monument is upon the ground where the convention hall stood, now marked by a crumbling pile of bricks forming the outline of its foundation.

FOUR SAY THEY WERE WARNED TO RETRACT WORDS

(By The Associated Press)
MARTIN, Ill., Jan. 11.—Deputy state's attorney, said today that four witnesses reported to him that they had been warned to retract testimony given against the five defendants on trial for murder in connection with the Herrin riots. They are George Harrison, banker and farmer; R. T. Ponder, real estate dealer; R. O. Green, former mayor of Herrin; and George Nelson, a farmer.

Letters to them were said to have been unsigned and were left at their homes, in some instances attached to pieces of hangman's rope.

New Prayer Bride Found By Pastor, He Announces

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—The Rev. George H. Lawson, of Orange, N. J., has a new "prayer bride," he told his congregation of the People's Evangelistic church today. She is Miss Nina A. Miller, of Fond Du Lac, Wis., and the preacher says she evidently has the three qualities he most yearns for in his wife. Her letters show her as a true Christian; she is not wealthy, and last but not least she doesn't mind publicity.

"Publicity was really the wrench that got into the machinery of the Rev. Mr. Lawson's romance with his other alleged prayer bride or near prayer bride, Mrs. May Mason, of Orange, who left him waiting at the church. He is 63.

He says he did not allow himself to get discouraged, but kept right on praying for a bride and lo! comes a letter from Miss Miller, from Fond Du Lac. Mr. Lawson said he, has sent word to Miss Miller to come right on.

DIRTY GOODS—FORT WORTH, Tex., Jan. 11.—January clearance sales were fewer than usual this year and are starting very late. This is due to the fact that stocks were low before Christmas buying started and the volume of trade then left shelves at most bars. Texas buyers are going to Eastern and Northern market unusually early.

CIGARS—DETROIT, Jan. 11.—Tobacco manufacturers announced today they looked for a record-breaking production of cigars in this district in 1923. About 350,000,000 cigars were produced here last year, as compared with 45,000,000 in 1921.

SHIP BILL MADE PUBLIC WILL BE INTRODUCED

(By The Associated Press)
RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 10.—Governor Cameron Morrison's state ship bill made public here tonight will be introduced in the Senate tomorrow jointly by Senators Emmett Bellamy, of Washington, and Charles L. Harris, of Raleigh. In administration circles it is understood that Representative W. M. Saunders of Johnston County will introduce the bill in the House.

The bill provides for a bond issue of $2,000,000 and while creating a commission to establish and operate a water transportation line and lines, it makes the carrying out of this final purpose conditional upon the judgment of the governor and the council of state following the assembly of data about costs and probable earnings.

The bill would authorize the commission to investigate and report to the governor and the council of state "if it is feasible and will be reasonably profitable to operate one or more lines of ship and water transportation" on the navigable rivers and sounds of the state in intrastate and interstate traffic to report on the practicability of obtaining docks, wharves and other landing places and terminal facilities in the cities and towns, together with their costs; to furnish figures as to the cost of purchasing suitable boats and ships and their operation; and to give a "reasonable estimate of the earnings" of one or more of water transportation under the commission.

MIDDIES FOUND GUILTY GIVEN SECOND CHANCE

(By The Associated Press)
ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 11.—Word was received from Washington at the Naval Academy tonight that three additional midshipmen found guilty in the recent trials by court martial have had the verdicts in their cases disappeared on technical grounds. They are:

George M. Lord, Hawaiian. John P. Gilmer, Jr., Kentucky, and Jack H. Kerans, Oklahoma. The same action had been taken in the case of Francis W. Laurent, Wisconsin, some time ago.

The midshipmen are members of the graduating class. All except Kerans have been released from arrest and restored to duty. Kerans still faces charges of leaving the academy and unlawful absence from the academy. Although the sentence of dismissal of Gilmer has been disapproved, he will remain on probation while at the institution.

FROCKS' LINES ARE PLAIN, COLOR AND FABRIC GIDDY

(Special to The Bee)
FROCKS' lines are simple this season, but color and fabrics are giddy. Here's a semi-tailored mid-season gown—very popular. Sleeves and panel are sure to be lined with brocade or bright red silk; vest of the same material. The second model has wide cuffs on loose sleeves. The bodice is bloused at the natural waistline, though the short skirt-yoke makes it seem lower.

Fashion Note

This natty coat is expected to make a broad appeal to the well-dressed man. Loose and flowing materials predominate. Primarily a sport garment, it is now seen at some of the smartest evening gatherings.
